

BACK IN THE USSR

I would go back to the break up CCCP (USSR) in 1991 because I am really interested in why the country crashed down and why the people didn't believe in the government. Why did they not trust their government? I would like to ask them why they wanted to go back to having independent countries.

In 1945 the Russians helped win the Second World War. Lots of people died, there was no food and cities had been bombed and burned. It was a terrible time for the people of Russia but they were victorious.

I visited CCCP in 1989 with my uncle. We travelled from China to trade with people. Everyone seemed content.

I don't think that things were that bad in CCCP and I think that maybe the country should have remained united.

Franke
Woodside