

My Journey to Scotland

I was born in Africa and lived in Spain but I always wanted to move to an English-speaking country. I got my Spanish nationality in 2013 and was able to move to Britain in 2014.

On my moving day, I and my three children caught the bus to Madrid where we boarded the plane to Edinburgh.

When I went to get the bus to Glasgow, I asked the bus driver to give me four bus tickets but the bus driver was so kind - he told me, "just buy one ticket for yourself". I was very surprised when the driver let the children travel free!

It was the first experience in my life to travel as a family to another country. Now, I am well settled and happy here in Glasgow with my family.
