

My journey back to Albania

My journey would take me back to 1996 in Albania. I was a child then and life was good and easy for me. I had no worries or cares except what games I would play the next day, meet my friends and study hard at school.

For my parents life was much more difficult but I didn't realise that, but I know now how hard life was for them.

I wish I could have studied more and had chosen a different career in Albania.

Now I live here in Glasgow and I'm very happy. I have three beautiful boys and my next journey will be to study again and fulfil my dream of becoming a doctor.
